Dear Nuclear Medicine Professional,

Lantheus is pleased to announce the commercial availability of NeuroLite® (Kit for the Preparation of Technetium Tc99m Bicisate Injection) to enhance your delivery of quality patient care. We understand the value of NeuroLite® and are pleased to once again supply our customers with this important product.

As previously reported, we are pleased with our progress with our additional manufacturer, Jubilant HollisterStier (JHS), for the production of NeuroLite®, and we currently anticipate having JHS qualified as a global manufacturing source for NeuroLite® during 2014. This new manufacturing source will help improve our future NeuroLite® product supply and inventory. We will inform you when JHS-manufactured NeuroLite® becomes commercially available.

We appreciate your patience during the absence of NeuroLite® from the marketplace and look forward to our continued partnership to meet your nuclear medicine needs today and in the future.

To place an order for NeuroLite® or for any questions, please contact your Customer Service representative at 800-299-3431.

Sincerely,
